PROVIDENCE, R. I., March 31.—The "fighting Democracy" rallied here last night in response to the bugic call of The New York World, and at 8 o'clock the battle for the rescue of Rhode Island from Republicanism was on, with a manifest fervor and enthusiasm that filled the opposition with dismay. Every Democrat in Providence and its vicinity was in the monster procession that paraded the streets, with bands of music, uniformed military and transparencies that called for free wool and from and coal. The city rang with cheers all night. The largest hall in town, Infantry Hall, had been chosen for the meeting, but it was too small for the crowd. More than one thousand people remained outside, held in the spell of Democratic enthusiasm with which the air was teeming.

The New York World was on everybody's

this Republican stronghold, and had outlined the plan of campaign, bringing the most efthe plan of campaign, bringing the most ef-fective craters of the party to the field by appealing strongly to their sense of duty, and urging the importance of this first grand attack against the opposition in just this way. "Democracy's champion, The New YORK WORLD," was what one of the speakers termed it, and the cheers that followed were

The speeches all had an encouraging and inspiring ring, and were received as assurances of the coming victory.
